Swing into autumn with golf packages from Celtic Haven

London, September 15 2010: As Ryder Cup excitement gets underway at Celtic Manor, golfers anxious to get in the swing can head across Wales for comprehensive golf packages at Celtic Haven.

Celtic Haven is a luxury self-catering cottage resort located near Tenby in west Wales, boasting its own nine-hole headland golf course, as well as a PGA approved golf simulator with over 70 international courses and driving range programmes.

Celtic Haven's Cool-Golf packages start from £495 per person, including four nights accommodation and a range of golfing programmes, suitable for complete novices or enthusiastic amateurs.

Available year-round, the package also features an introduction and assessment with the resort's director of golf, a gym induction, three hour-long tuition sessions with a PGA professional, three hour-long sessions in the 'Full Swing' golf academy and unlimited play on Celtic Haven's Headlands course.

Once your swing has been perfected, guests can also benefit from an introduction to the Championship course at Tenby, including a full round of golf, and discounted rates at other local courses.

The package costs £495 per person and includes four nights accommodation in one of Celtic Haven's luxury cottages, daily breakfast delivered to the cottage, lunch or dinner every day in Waves Italian bar and restaurant, free use of the resort's leisure centre and fitness suite including tennis courts and swimming pool, and 10 per cent off all treatments in the onsite Elemis Premier Spa. Non-participating partners will also be given discounted accommodation and meals.

Celtic Haven is ideally located inside Pembrokeshire Coast National Park and features 26 cottages, sleeping from two to 12 people. The resort is less than a mile from the beach and overlooks Lydstep Bay, the historic monastic island of Caldey and the Atlantic.
