Autumn bargains at Pembrokeshire's Celtic Haven: Short-break cottages from £149 – and take the dog for those walks!

London, 28 September 2010: Autumn leaves may be falling – and so are prices at Celtic Haven, the most complete resort in Wales, where weekend break bargains are adding to the season of mist of mellow fruitfulness.

Until the December 17 this stylish resort of 26 cottages, set within the Pembrokeshire Coast National Park, is offering three-night weekend or four-night midweek breaks at just £149 per person. Under fives travel free and, with autumn the perfect time for long scenic walks, you can even take the dog for just £20 extra!

The offer (not available October 23-29 inclusive) includes a three-course gourmet Welsh dinner on the night of arrival for those opting for the four-night Monday to Friday break. Those choosing the three-night Friday to Monday option are given a £20 voucher for dinner on Friday night in Celtic Haven's own Waves Italian-influenced bar and restaurant. All guests are also offered a £30 voucher for use in the resort's Elemis Premier Spa, the only one in West Wales.

Celtic Haven is close to Tenby in west Wales and is on an historic site, being the former estate of Lord St David. It boasts cottages and houses sleeping from two to 12. Scenic coastal walks through the national park overlook the Atlantic and the nearby monastic island of Caldey.

Free use of all the resort's leisure facilities, including sauna, gym, indoor swimming pool, all-weather tennis courts and the nine-hole headland golf course, is also included in the cost of the autumn stays.

Children aged over six stay for £99.
