

Last minute half term escape in Pembrokeshire and you can even take the dog!

London, 14 February 2011: Whisk away the family on a last minute half term holiday to the Pembrokeshire Coast National Park and stay in a luxury cottage at Celtic Haven for just £149 per adult and £99 per child. Children under five go free.

The holiday cottage village has good availability for the February half term (19-26 February) with accommodation sleeping from two to 12 people. The charming cottages sit on the Pembrokeshire coastline, just minutes from Lydstep Beach, clifftop walking trails and cosy country pubs.

Prices start from £149 per adult for a three night Friday to Monday break or a four night Monday to Friday break during the February half term. Children over six can stay at Celtic Haven for £99 and children aged five and under go free. Pets are also welcome for an additional £20 per pet. The price includes complimentary use of the facilities, a £20 per person voucher for the resort's 'Waves' bar & restaurant and a £30 voucher towards spa treatments at the onsite Elemis Premier Spa.

Kids will never tire of the complimentary adventure zone, football area, tennis lessons, indoor swimming pool and junior golf course leaving parents to relax at the Spa which has over 80 blissful treatments to chose from.

The early dinner restaurant facility for children at the Waves bar & restaurant and the resort's babysitting service means that everyone gets a holiday.

For a day out, families can visit the nearby Folly Farm Adventure Park and Zoo with the brand new 'Farmyard Frolic' show performing throughout the week.
