

Celtic Haven and Elemis support ladies golf with a two-day tournament from 24-25 September

9 August 2011, London: Female golf enthusiasts are invited to join Pembrokeshire resort Celtic Haven in the 'Welsh Festival of Ladies Golf' from 24 to 25 September. The women's only golf tournament is supported by beauty brand Elemis and sets out to change the perception that golf is a male dominated sport. Players can sign up at www.celtichaven-golf.co.uk or on 01834 870000 and the entry fee is just £25.

The luxury spa resort located just outside Tenby has its own headland golf course where the tournament will take place. The course boasts three championship holes (including two par five) and stunning views over Caldey Island and the Atlantic Ocean.

Players can tee off in the hope of winning silver trophies or the 'Festival Champion' rosebowl plus over £1,000 in prizes. The golf simulator in the academy at Celtic Haven will allow the longest drive and nearest the 'pin' competitions to be at Pebble Beach in California and the Old Course at St. Andrew's. All participants are treated to a £50 Elemis beauty pack, a jazz pasta party on Saturday and a country music hog roast on Sunday followed by the awards ceremony.

Inspirational 18-year-old Wales International Emma Guerreiro, who has won the Junior Wales Open and was the Pembrokeshire County Champion in 2009, will support women players at the tournament. Emma is keen to make golf more available to women of all ages and has helped to introduce the popular Sport is Beauty and Cool Golf programmes at Celtic Haven, making golf fun and feminine without losing the competitive edge.

Competitors and spectators are welcome to stay in Celtic Haven's gorgeous self-catering cottages which sleep from two to 12 people. After a hard days golfing, girls can relax in Celtic Haven's indoor swimming pool, hot tub and sauna or book a treatment in the resort's onsite Elemis Premier Spa. Bed and breakfast prices over the tournament weekend are £79 per person per night.
